

Resolution No. 11/2019
of 14 November, 2019
of the Board of the Doctoral School of Exact and Natural Sciences on: recruitment from research projects

The Doctoral School Board supports the introduction of the possibility of financing statutory doctoral scholarships at the School on the basis of funds from research projects (grants). Raising such external funds will allow the School to increase the number of doctoral students in the process of education over the limit of scholarships granted based on budgetary resources of the Jagiellonian University.

Requirements for candidates within the admission of doctoral students for places with a scholarship financed from research projects must be at least the same as the requirements in regular admission to the School.

Each application to the Director of the School concerning the announcement of a recruitment competition for places financed from a research project should be signed by the project manager and the co-ordinator of the relevant education programme. Before submitting the application, it should obtain the consent of the relevant dean or director of the unit in which it is planned to carry out the research project of the doctoral student recruited in the competition. The application should be accompanied by information from the Research Support Centre (CWN) confirming the possibility of financing (including possible reimbursement) from the funds of the research project in whole or in part of the scholarship paid by the School in accordance with the provision of "Law on higher education" of 20 July 2018. In the case of a research project that can finance the scholarship only partially, it is required to join the above-mentioned application with a statement on the method of financing the full cost of doctoral student education.

A doctoral student may only receive one doctoral scholarship at the School, irrespective of the sources of funding.
